How the Millennium Comes Violently
From Jonestown to Heaven's Gate

Catherine Wessinger

Foreword by
Jayne Seminare Docherty

SEVEN BRIDGES PRESS
NEW YORK • LONDON
Contents

Acknowledgments
Foreword by Jayne Seminare Docherty viii x

1. Introduction
   My Involvement 1
   Religions, Not "Cults" 1
   "Brainwashing" and the Charismatic Leader 3
   The Case Studies 6

2. How the Millennium Comes Violently
   Recent Events 12
   Key Terms 12
   The Dynamics of Violence 15
   Fragile Millennial Groups That Initiate Violence Due to Internal Weaknesses and Cultural Opposition 17
   Assaulted Millennial Groups That Are Attacked by Law Enforcement Agents Because They Are Perceived as Dangerous 18
   Revolutionary Millennial Movements Possessing Theologies of Violence 20
   Conclusion 22
   Notes 26

3. 1978—Jonestown
   The Violence 30
   Jim Jones 30
   Peoples Temple 31
   Catastrophic Millennialism 34
   The Persecution 37
   The Failure of the Millennial Goal 39
   The Failure of the Millennial Goal 45
4. 1993—Branch Davidians
   The Violence 47
   David Koresh 56
   The Branch Davidians at Mount Carmel 81
   Catastrophic Millennialism 86
   The Persecution 91
   The Success of the Millennial Goal 100
   The Decision to Commit Violence 102
   Transcript—Waco Negotiations, April 10, 1993 104
   Transcript—David Koresh and FBI Negotiators, April 16 and 18, 1993 105
   Notes 112

5. 1995—Aum Shinrikyo
   The Violence 120
   Shoko Asahara 126
   Aum Shinrikyo 130
   Catastrophic Millennialism 135
   The Persecution 138
   The Failure of the Millennial Goal 142
   The Decision to Commit Violence 143
   Notes 151

6. 1996—Montana Freemen
   The Potential for Violence 158
   The Cast of Characters 158
   The Montana Freemen—Part of a Euro-American Nativist Movement 167
   Catastrophic Millennialism 172
   Events of the Standoff—Avoiding Persecution 178
   The Millennial Goal Preserved 179
   The Decision Not to Commit Violence and Subsequent Developments 192 within the FBI 201
   Notes 203

7. Other Cases Briefly Considered: Solar Temple and Heaven's Gate
   The Violence 218
   Luc Jouret and Joseph Di Mambro 218
   Solar Temple 219
   Catastrophic Millennialism 221

8. 1998—Chen Tao: Assessing the Potential for Violence 224
   Notes 225

9. Comparative Conclusions 226
   Categories of Catastrophic Millennial Groups Involved in Violence 226
   What to Do? 232
   General Observations 233
   Characteristics That Cause Concern 233
   Reassuring Characteristics 233
   The Future 233
   The New Millennium: It Is Just an Arbitrary Date 233
   The Responsibility of the Media 233
   Millennialism in the Next Millennium 233
   Notes 233

Bibliography 233
Index 233